Seven Steps Up Event & Banquet Center

Not Seven Steps Up

As a member of the corporate world, you've been to a lot of meetings, seminars, and training sessions. We know; we've been there too. We've struggled to stay awake in that sterile, stimulus free room. We're sure you remember, and not fondly, that low ceilinged, windowless, fluorescent lighted, cramped room with the colorful but rocklike plastic chair.

"Jamie Flinchbaugh, the co-founder and partner of the Lean Learning Center in Novi, Michigan, has learned from experience that you need to pay attention to room design. 'The room can have a substantial impact...probably between 5 to 20%—but that's enough that you should really pay attention.' " [From an article by Liz Guthridge, Troy Media Corporation]

We've designed Seven Steps Up as a comfortable setting for corporate meetings and events. We provide all the technology needed for efficient meetings: audio/video capabilities, a room-balanced, crystal clear sound system, wireless microphone, and wireless internet access. We provide complete beverage service on site and align with the best caterers in the area for any food service desired. An owner is always on-site to ensure that your event runs smoothly and hassle free. Seven Steps Up is the restored grand ballroom of the former Spring Lake Masonic Temple. As a designated historical landmark we've retained much of the original early 1900's splendor and craftsmanship. High beamed ceilings, original restored maple floors, an abundance of natural light, exposed Chicago common brick walls, and comfortable padded fabric chairs create an inviting atmosphere for your employees or guests. Your guests are at the meeting to learn something. A comfortable environment promotes learning and builds goodwill with the attendees.

We've seen our guests move from the tables to our comfortable leather sofas for a breakout session, or simply to find some private space for a conversation with a client. Our corporate clients have gathered at Seven Steps Up for meetings, seminars, customer appreciation dinners, holiday parties, and other company events. Call or email us for a tour of our unique, intimate space.

Don't forget one of your most important meetings: your company holiday party. We have a few open dates remaining. Call us today to plan an exciting evening for your hard working staff. Details on reverse side.
